Challenge

We have many bold and brilliant ideas. Often we lack the resources to manifest them fully. We fund raise, ask for help, and sometimes it works and sometimes it doesn't. How can we manifest the resources we need even when the odds against us appear overwhelming. We know something needs to happen, but it seems we just don't have the money.

Solution

Working with spiritual principles can be very helpful here. David Spangler, one of the pioneers of the Findhorn Foundation community, set out some key principles in publications on “The Laws of Manifestation”. It is not simply a case of invoking and inviting money and resources to achieve whatever you want. It is more a case of ‘tuning in’ to what the universe, or Spirit, is asking for. If your project is really in the service of something greater, and if you are really fully aligned in thought, word and action, then what you invoke in the way of material resources to help manifest your project is significantly more likely to occur.
